The ballroom of the Richmond Hotel was again converted into an Eastern tea garden, lighted with Japanese lanterns, and hung with garlands of wisteria, apple blossoms and trailing vines. The tables were decorated in boxes and baskets of spring flowers, and tall, slender stands of iris and lilies were arranged about the sides of the hall. The musicians' gallery was strung with wisteria and bright colored lights, and

BUCHANAN COUNTY LAND TITLE BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

matters of legislation, he has his remedy in asking for an investigation of the subject."

"I wish to give notice," replied Mr. Gordon, "that after the taking of this vote I will ask for such an investigation."

The House refused to reconsider the Gordon amendments by a vote of 64 to 12, and without debate the bill was put on its passage and passed, 75 to 12. A motion to reconsider the vote by which it was passed for the first time threw the subject open for discussion.

"I shall not detain the House long," said Mr. Gordon, "in discussing the pending question, but I believe the House has made a great mistake to repeal an act under the impression that that act was obtained by fraud. It is a great imposition, and should have been thoroughly heard on both sides."

"It involves thousands of acres of land, worth untold amounts of money in timber and minerals and coal."

"I have known the Governor of Virginia for many years as a man and as a gentleman, and I do not believe that he has done anything he believed to be wrong in trying to have this bill repealed. But I do believe that he has made a grave mistake in listening to attorneys for one side, and not to the other—that all I've got to say. The repeal of this act will jeopardize thousands of land titles to benefit certain gentlemen, who have been making a great fight for its repeal. I shall vote against this bill, as I believe in that which is right, and as I despise that which is low and selfish and mean and unprincipled."

"I was a member of the Committee for Courts of Justice two years ago, which recommended that bill," said Mr. Montague, of Richmond. "I have no pride of opinion, and believe that when we find that we have passed a bad act, or that it works a hardship, it should be repealed."

"I have felt it incumbent on me as chairman of the Committee for Courts of Justice, to stand by the recommendation of the committee. This bill does not pass," said Mr. Oliver. "For the first time in my life, I have to-day seen a considerable majority of a committee of this House vote on the repeal of a bill which the committee recommended do not pass. It seems to me to present a most remarkable condition of affairs in the present General Assembly and in the Government of this State. I shall, at any rate, have had the satisfaction of knowing that I did my duty, and registered my protest on this floor against any bill that would result in the confiscation of the property of any man."

How the Vote Stood.—Mr. Field, of Madison, agreed that the State should deal honestly with its citizens and taxpayers, and not be brought into disrepute by land speculators. The roll call on the passage of the bill was as follows:

Ayes.—Messrs. Adams, Baker, Barley, Bonfant, Brock, Cawthorn, Chapman, Clement, Crockett, Dalton, John Orr, Daniel, Dodson, Earmann, Flanagan, Franklin, Harris, Leoney, Love, Masie, Nelson, Oliver, Pennington, Philpott, Powers, Hew, Francis W. Smith, Harry B. Smith, Spatig, Spessard, Stubbs, Terrell, Walton, A. G. Weaver, H. C. Weaver, Williams, Winston, Woodward—38.

Noes.—Messrs. Birrell, Cousins, Field, Gordon, Hefflin, Houston, Leedy, Oliver, Harry E. Smith, Walton, A. G. Weaver, Woodward—12.

Mr. Meetez announced that he was paired with Mr. Browning, he voting "aye" and Mr. Browning "no." The House refused to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed, and it will be enrolled and sent to the Governor.

Gordon Speaks Again.—At the afternoon session Mr. Gordon again rose to a question of personal privilege, and withdrew that part of his remarks in regard to an investigation, as having been made in the heat of debate. He read from an account of the morning proceedings from an afternoon paper, with the headline, "He threatens to investigate the Governor," and in substance said: "The error—Gordon changes his mind, after reading the article, Mr. Gordon said:

"I think I have the right and that it is my duty to place myself squarely before the House on the record. What I said was that I had known the Governor for years, and had the utmost confidence in him as a man incapable of any act from a selfish motive. I said that in my judgment he has been led into error in taking any part in this contest by listening to lawyers on one side, and not hearing lawyers on the other side. When I was speaking to personal privilege, and the chair ruled that privilege did not justify my remarks, and that my remarks were asking for an investigation. In the heat of the debate I gave notice that I would demand an investigation. I simply desire to repeat what I said before. I believe the chief executive of this State incapable of acting in this matter from a selfish motive, but that it would have been more in accordance with the Constitution of this State had he sent a special message to this General Assembly, explaining this bill and stating the reasons why he believed the act of 1912 should be repealed."

THE HOUSE

The Gordon resolution extending the session of the General Assembly for five days without pay was rejected by the House of Delegates yesterday morning by a vote of 75 to 12. Mr. Gordon argued that it would enable the House to pass on some important questions such as the primary and fee bills, but the House was not in the humor for staying late at the individual expense of the members. The close of business yesterday the Senate primary bill was the sixty-fifth item on the House calendar, and unless better speed is made in consideration of same to this General Assembly adjourns the past two days, it will not be reached unless taken up of its order. The West fee reform bill is the twenty-fourth item on the Senate calendar. The co-ordinate college bill is the eighty-fourth item on the House calendar, and will almost certainly not be reached, unless taken out of its order.

Amended and Passed.—Senate bill No. 119, to regulate the hours of labor in factories where females and children under fourteen years of age are employed, adding to the existing act a new section, prohibiting the employment of females, and males under twenty-one years of age, where intoxicating liquors are manufactured, bought, sold, packed or shipped, was amended on motion of Mr. Hobson, to exempt those engaged in labeling bottles or any other work that does not bring them into contact with intoxicants. Other amendments were adopted excepting those engaged in working tobacco and its growing and mercantile establishments located in country districts, and as amended the bill was passed.

The House rejected Senate bill No. 128, to repeal an act of 1891 to constitute a capitation tax a lien on real estate owned at the time the capitation tax is assessed. The bill was rejected 45 to 36, reconsidered, passed by a vote of 45 to 36, and then passed.

Senate bill No. 74, for the creation and maintenance of a legislative reference bureau, was adopted, after debate. Mr. Stearnes predicted that it would open the way for untold wrongdoing and lobbying; that it provided twenty-four months' pay for a two months' snap. Mr. Stephenson defended it as a farmers' bill, which would provide a method of adding the non-legal members in preparation of their bills. All amendments were rejected, and the bill adopted, 54 to 2. The negative votes were Messrs. Leedy and Stearnes.

Senate bill No. 276, to amend section 1458 of the Code of Virginia in reference to the condemnation and purchase of lands for schoolhouses.

Senate bill No. 155, to amend section 504 of the Code relative to the contents of the personal property tax books, was opposed by Mr. Land as putting extra work on commissioners of the revenue and was passed by.

HART-WHITE BILL FOUGHT IN HOUSE

Goes Over Until To-Day, After Motion to Dismiss It Fails.

A vigorous attack was made in the House of Delegates last night on the Hart-White game bill, which narrowly avoided being dismissed, after three hours had been spent in consideration of amendments. The bill was prepared after months of study from the best statutes of many States, the most salient feature being drawn from the Alabama law, which has proved most successful. It has passed the Senate and came up in the House late yesterday afternoon. It was warmly defended by Messrs. White, Walton, Chalkley, Milstead, Montague and others, and bitterly attacked by Messrs. Bonfant, of Powhatan, and Walton, of Hanover. Mr. Bonfant approved some of the general principles, but had offered a substitute bill. Mr. Walton was opposed to the whole matter, and offered amendments designed to weaken the whole effect of the proposed legislation.

Has Been Highly Indorsed.—The bill has the approval of the State Farmers' Union, the Virginia Game Protective Association and the Audubon Society. Its main features are the appointment by the Governor of a State game commissioner, with game warden in each county, a definite closed season and a gun tax on hunters sufficient to pay all the costs and yield the State a revenue. Its advocates claim that it is one of the most important pieces of constructive legislation before this session, that it will go far to conserve the supply of game in the State, and that it will put a stop to pot hunters, mainly idle negroes who refuse to work, but will live by hunting on other people's land without permission. Opponents charge that it will open the way for the creation of a gigantic political machine with agents in every section, that it provides enormous patronage for the game commissioner and that it is framed to aid city men who go on occasional hunting trips.

After more than three hours had been spent in consideration of the bill by sections, with votes on innumerable amendments, the House of Delegates moved to dismiss the bill and all pending amendments from the calendar.

How They Voted.—This was rejected, 44 to 54, as follows:

Ayes.—Messrs. Barley, Bonfant, Brock, Cawthorn, Chapman, Clement, Crockett, Dalton, John Orr, Daniel, Dodson, Earmann, Flanagan, Franklin, Harris, Leoney, Love, Masie, Nelson, Oliver, Pennington, Philpott, Powers, Hew, Francis W. Smith, Harry B. Smith, Spatig, Spessard, Stubbs, Terrell, Walton, A. G. Weaver, H. C. Weaver, Williams, Winston, Woodward—38.

Noes.—Messrs. Baker, Birrell, Brown, Chalkley, Cousins, Field, Gordon, Hefflin, Houston, Leedy, Oliver, Harry E. Smith, Walton, A. G. Weaver, Woodward—12.
